4. Horie SIMA had been the evil spirit of the Iron Guard Movement, ruthless, ambitious, violent; during the German occupation the movement divided into two groups -- those who still followed him and the dissidents. At the time of the Rumanian Armistice, in August 1944, the Germans called upon the Iron Guardists to set up a government, in order to give some semblance of legality. The leaders had to choose between becoming ministers or officers; and thus the Rumanian National Government was formed in Vienna, with Horie SIMA as prime minister, and Viktor T. T. as vice president of the Council. This government served as a puppet government for the Germans.

It is reported that Horie SIMA was a member of the Iron Guard Movement during the German occupation of Rumania.
